

Pundit Brij Bhushan Kabra

A legendary musician in the world of Indian classical music, Pundit Brij Bhushan Kabra has made several notable achievements throughout his musical career. Simultaneously a virtuoso, an innovator, a visionary, a traditionalist, a preserver, and educator, he has traveled the globe popularizing Indian classical music.

One of his greatest achievements is introducing the Hawaiian guitar into the realm of Indian classical music, and establishing it as a legitimate classical instrument through his great efforts, his innovativeness, and the support of his Guru, the legendary Sarod maestro, Ustad Ali Akbar Khan.

Early in his career, he released the album “Call of the Valley” featuring Pundit Kabra, Santoor maestro Pundit Shiv Kumar Sharma, and master flautist Pundit Hari Prasad Chaurasia. This album is the most popular Indian classical recording.

Pundit Kabra has also done research in the field of “Naad Yoga”, which is the realization of Self through music. He is also a great educationist and heads an institution with almost 10,000 students studying in various fields. He has published several papers on child education with special reference to the importance of music and rhythm in their education.
